

$100,000 Worth for $65,000

Furniture at a Saving Averaging 33 Per Cent.

The planning and working for this sale dates back to last February—since then opportunities have been keenly watched for and promptly profited by. During the makers' dull season much of this furniture was contracted for. Exhibition pieces and sets have been picked up at half prices in some instances. So have patterns to be discontinued. The department chief's limit has been only this—no cheaply made furniture is to be tolerated.

Believing that this largest furniture floor in Washington—its four walls are the sole boundary to 21,700 square feet of flooring—is filled with the most comprehensive collection of furniture in town and that, quality considered, the prices are least in town, an inspection is invited with pride natural and confidence justified.
